AG5 joins Yocova as a member of the Partner Programme

AG5, the award-winning skills management software provider has joined Yocova as a member of the Partner Programme. The company, based in The Netherlands and Germany provides its software solutions to organisations in a range of industries, including aviation.

As a Yocova member and Partner, AG5 now benefits from connecting with the platform's global network of aviation businesses and professionals and can market and sell its solution on the Yocova Marketplace.

Known as 'the only Plug-and-Play Skills Management Software', AG5's solution provides a cross-company overview of skills, competencies and certifications, and highlights skill gaps and training requirements, enabling organisations to prepare for the future and remain safe and compliant. AG5's Skills Management Software brings together skills and training data into an always up-to-date matrix, eliminating the need to update complex spreadsheets and reducing the risk of incorrect or outdated information.

AG5 comment

"Joining the Yocova Partner Programme is an excellent opportunity to continue serving the aviation industry, where we currently work to guide renowned organizations such as KLM and Air France toward skills management mastery. We believe the Yocova Marketplace is an excellent platform on which to do so, enabling us to showcase our expertise – and to help other aerospace organizations identify and close skills gaps, so they stay safe, compliant, and ready for the future."

Yocova comment

"We're delighted that AG5 has joined the Yocova Partner Programme. Without up-to-date training and fully qualified professionals, it would not be possible for aviation businesses to operate, so it's fantastic that AG5's software provides a clear and simple solution to help to manage this. As a Yocova member, AG5 can now easily connect more widely within our industry and spread the word about this effective solution to help identify and manage skills and training requirements."
